Professional profile

Ph.D. mathematician with several years of research experience, strong analytical and problem-solving skills, and newly acquired practical data-analysis skills in Python, SQL, and related tools. Fluent in English and German, and currently learning Italian. Open to immediate employment.

Training as data analyst (since January 2026)

Selected courses:

- | | |
|-------------------|---|
| 01/2026 – now | Data Scientist: Analytics (Codecademy)
Career path covering Python programming, SQL, statistical analysis, data cleaning and manipulation with Pandas, and data visualisation through hands-on projects. |
| 05/2026 | AI in Data Analysis (Czechitas) |
| 02/2026 – 03/2026 | Python for Data Analysis (Czechitas, certificate)
Libraries: Pandas, Seaborn, Matplotlib. |
| 02/2026 – 03/2026 | SQL (Czechitas, certificate) |
| 05/2026 | Data Fundamentals (IBM SkillsBuild, certificate) |
| 03/2026 | Artificial Intelligence Fundamentals with Capstone Project (IBM SkillsBuild, certificate) |

Selected projects:

- Analysis of heatwaves (blogpost, interactive app)
Interactive analysis of high temperatures created in Python.
- Exploratory Data Analysis of US medical charges (Jupyter notebook)
Investigation of relationships between demographic and health variables and health-care costs using Python libraries Pandas and Seaborn.

Research positions in mathematics (2018 – 2025)

Conducting independent research: formulating problems, analyzing structures, and producing peer-reviewed scientific articles and presentations. Most of the research positions included teaching.
